Piolets d'Or Releases Long List of Significant Climbs from 2018

By Derek Buckaloo | July 9th, 2018

Front wall seen leading the ascent of Living By Candlelight, 6b, 2018. Photo: Alex Honnold / Rock & Ice Contributor

The Piolets d'Or have released the long list of 34 climbs and routes from the calendar year of 2018, which will be whittled down to a shortlist of 10 climbs in September, and finally to the winner in October.

The Piolets d'Or is an annual award given to the climbs on the list, from Event Lumière who first envisioned it in 1998, and is presented by the Piolets d'Or Association. The Piolets d'Or Association is made up of Yuji Hirayama, Catherine Destivelle and Christophe Profit.

The Piolets d'Or website says the award is "dedicated to the spirit of pushing the limits of mountaineering and to honoring its torchlit exploration [here]."

Asia

Kohtse Nirvana, Kangchenjunga, Nepal

Kohtse Nirvana, Kangchenjunga, Nepal

Full ascent via southeast face, 3,000m on Sept. 17 by Simone Moro (Switzerland), Tamara Lunger (Italy), and Alex Txikon (Spain).

Kangchenjunga, Jannu Northwest Face, Nepal

Jannu Northwest Face, Nepal

Full ascent via southeast face, 3,000m on Sept. 17 by Simone Moro (Switzerland), Tamara Lunger (Italy), and Alex Txikon (Spain).

Kangchenjunga, Jannu Northwest Face, Nepal

Jannu Northwest Face, Nepal

Full ascent via northwest face, 3,000m on Dec. 7